Quick Facts about Young Voters in The San Francisco Bay Area, CA<sup>1</sup>: The Midterm Election Year 2006

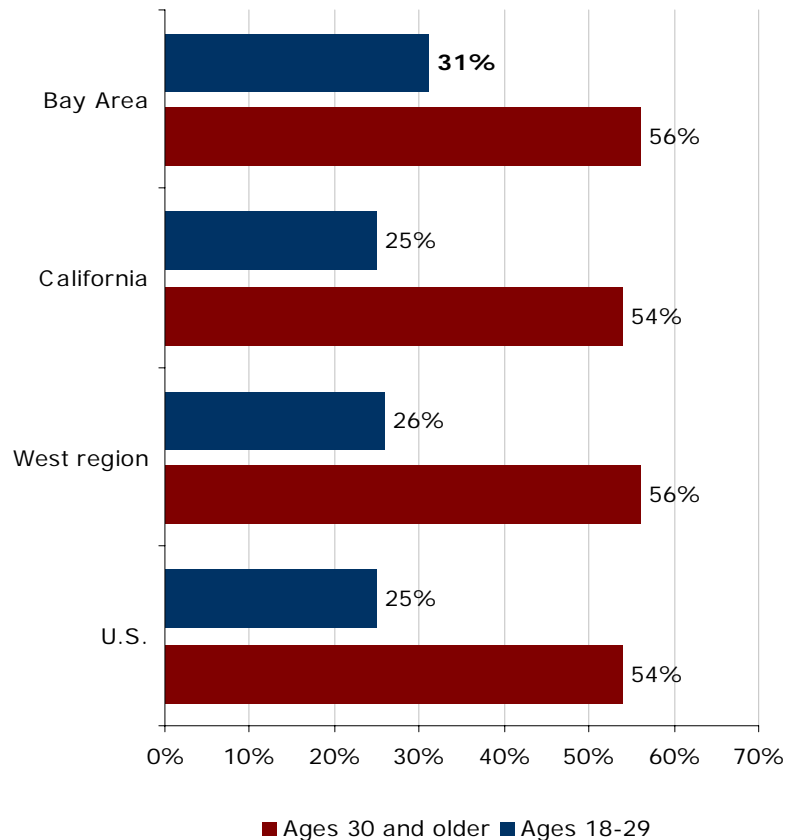

By Karlo Barrios Marcelo, Research Associate<sup>2</sup>
July 2007

The 2006 midterm election was the second major election in a row that saw an increase in the electoral participation of young people ages 18-29. Between 2002 and 2006, the percentage of eligible young people who voted increased by 3 percentage points to 25 percent, the single largest increase among all age groups nationally.<sup>3</sup>

In San Francisco Bay Area, CA, the voter turnout rate among young people was 31 percent, six percentage points above California's state average and the national average. An estimated 230,000 young people in the San Francisco Bay Area, CA, voted in the 2006 elections.

There was a 29 percentage point gap between young people and adults in the U.S., but this gap was smaller (25 percentage points) at the more local level of San Francisco Bay Area, CA.
